On the Fly!

October 2015

Marc Wentnick: Editor in Chief

Happy HaToween!

It's not all about snot nosed kids, dogs in pumpkin costumes and candy.

Halloween is short for "All Hallows' Evening".

It's a celebration dedicated to honoring the dead.

Celebrated in 31 countries the theme of utilizing humor and ridicule is paramount in confronting the power of death.

So there you have it, remember dead people by making fun of them. Go figure?!

MAGNETIZE YOUR TOOL:

Have you ever been working on a little project and that tiny little screw is just not co-operating, like on a MCPX for example...especially the feathering shaft screws!?? Would it help if your tool was magnetic to hold that little bit, screw, bolt...etc??? Did you know you can magnetize your tool? Yup...take a magnet (the stronger the better, an old car stereo speaker is a good one) and on one side of the tool (screwdriver for example) rub the magnet on one side of the tool only...from the handle down to the tip...repeat a few times...again, from the handle to the tip...and there you have a magnetized tool now....as long as it is metal of course.

OUCH!

You did what?!

As some of you may have heard I recently met a girl from Lenior, NC. And aside from the beautiful mountains and my beautiful girlfriend (she may be reading this!) I have a nice size yard to fly in. Not as big as a ball field it leans itself as a perfect area to fly a micro.

I choose the Horizon Hobby UMX Corsair. This little 4-channel bird fly's amazingly well. Not only does the 4-channels help with maneuverability but the AS3-X technology insures a stable flying experience even in light wind conditions.

Bottom Line

I love to fly this little brute. The four channels make any maneuver quick and easy. The 8.5 brush-less carries her around with ease even in less than micro friendly breezes. Hand launching is stress free and grass landing perfect. I removed the landing gear. It looks better in the air and makes grass landing effortless.

I also enjoy the detail. She looks great either in the air or in the pit.

If you enjoy barrel rolls, strafing runs and knife edge turns all done in your own backyard then the UMX Corsair is for you.

Do you remember?

You finish the scenario

Chapter one...

You maiden a new ship and take off and up she goes. Up and up and up and...Hey what the heck!!! Tail Heavy!

Fighting both the tail heavy plane and the feeling to pee in your shorts you land the plane as if you were reeling in a Taurpin.

Chapter two...

Do you add weight to the nose?

Do you compensate with control services?

Do you do both?

Do you wonder if after your near heart attack your still having fun?

Write me and I'll publish your advice!

Building tips and tricks

Covering Corners

*To get into those tight corners when covering with monokote, use the iron to heat a butter knife then apply the knife to the area to be covered.

Mixing epoxy

When mixing epoxy use an old coffee can lid, after the epoxy hardens just flex the lid and the epoxy will pop off.

Bending Wood

Use 409 spray cleaner to bend balsa wood. It also makes a good airplane cleaner for you and the airplane.

See you next month! "Chef" Marc Wentnick
